Results of Operations

Securities of this Fund are only available for purchase by other funds and accounts managed or advised by Fidelity, and are not available for public purchase.

Fidelity Canadian Equity Multi-Asset Base Fund (Fund), Series O, returned 11.6%, for the six-month period ended December 31, 2024. During the review period, Canadian equities, as represented by the S&P/TSX Composite Index, returned 14.7% (in Canadian dollar terms).

Market overview:

Canadian equities, as measured by the S&P/TSX Composite Index, returned 14.7% for the six-month period ended December 31, 2024.

Canadian equities rose over the review period, driven by strong performance in key sectors. Information technology and financials were the best-performing sectors, benefiting from advancements in artificial intelligence and a more positive outlook on banking stocks. All sectors, except for communication services, improved over the period. The communication services sector, which is heavily focused on telecommunications, declined due to specific stock-related challenges. Cyclical sectors like consumer discretionary and energy also posted growth despite bouts of volatility, while defensive sectors such as healthcare, utilities, and consumer staples also experienced gains as investors looked for stability amid ongoing market fluctuations. However, market volatility remained elevated, fuelled by risks including uncertainty around U.S. monetary policy, concerns over U.S. economic growth, and the threat of new U.S. tariffs targeting key trading partners. These tariff threats weighed on investor sentiment, particularly in export-oriented industries, amplifying fears of broader economic repercussions. The Canadian economy grew at a slower-than-expected pace, with an annualized growth rate of 1.0% in the third quarter of 2024, compared to higher growth of 2.2% in the second quarter of 2024. Inflation, as measured by the consumer price index, eased from 2.7% in June 2024 to 1.9% in November 2024, indicating a slowdown in price increases. Additionally, the labour market showed signs of softening, as the unemployment rate rose to 6.7% in December 2024, up from 6.4% in June 2024. These trends bolstered the case for continued monetary easing by the Bank of Canada (BoC). Against this backdrop, the BoC announced several interest rate cuts, reducing the benchmark rate from 4.75% in June 2024 to 3.25% by December 2024.

Factors affecting performance:

The Fund underperformed its benchmark, the S&P/TSX Capped Composite Index, returned 14.7% for the review period. The Fund underperformed its benchmark primarily due to investments in certain stocks in the financials sector. In the sector, a lower-than-benchmark exposure to Canada-based banking firms Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce and Toronto-Dominion Bank, detracted from relative returns. Investments in certain stocks in the industrials sector, including investments in Canada-based global content and technology company Thomson Reuters, and Canada-based transportation firm TFI International, detracted from relative returns. In other sectors, a lower-than-benchmark exposure to Canada-based energy company Enbridge, and investments in Canada-based telecommunications firm Rogers Communications, detracted from relative returns.

In contrast, exposure to certain stocks in the consumer staples sector contributed to relative returns. In the sector, a lack of exposure to a Canada-based dairy firm, and a Canada-based food manufacturing and distribution company, contributed to relative returns. A lower-than-benchmark exposure to the real estate sector, including a lack of exposure to two Canada-based real estate investment trusts (REITs) firms, contributed to relative returns. In other sectors, a lack of exposure to Canada-based oil and gas firm, a lower-than-benchmark exposure to Canada-based energy firm Suncor Energy, and investments in Canada-based insurance firm Fairfax Financial, contributed to relative returns.

At the end of the review period, the Fund had no exposure to Suncor Energy.

Portfolio changes:

During the review period, the Fund's exposure to the financials and information technology sectors was increased. In the financials sector, a position was initiated in Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. In the information technology sector, the portfolio manager increased exposure to Canada-based e-commerce firm Shopify. The portfolio manager believed both companies had an attractive risk/reward outlook.

In contrast, exposure to the industrials and communication services sectors was decreased as the manager pursued opportunities elsewhere with more potential in the portfolio manager's view. In the industrials sector, the portfolio manager reduced exposure to Canada-based transportation firm Canadian National Railway. In the communication services sector, exposure was reduced to Rogers Communications.

At the end of the review period, the Fund had its largest absolute exposure to the financials sector, followed by the energy sector. The Fund diverged most from its benchmark's sector weightings by having more exposure to the information technology sector and less exposure to the energy sector.

Recent Developments

Portfolio manager Andrew Marchese believes that while markets have experienced heightened volatility, they remain focused on the long-term potential of high-quality companies. In the portfolio manager's view, as economic conditions stabilize, markets are likely to transition from being dominated by macroeconomic factors to being more driven by company-specific fundamentals. Against this backdrop, the portfolio manager and the investment team are focusing on companies they believe to have strong balance sheets. Macroeconomic analysis will continue to be reviewed against company fundamentals, with a focus on adding value by selecting companies the portfolio manager and the investment team believe exhibit attractive growth potential, strong management, and favourable risk/reward profiles.

The standing instructions also require that investment decisions in respect of these transactions (a) are free from any influence by an entity related to Fidelity and without taking into account any consideration relevant to an entity related to Fidelity; (b) represent the business judgment of Fidelity uninfluenced by considerations other than the best interests of the Fund; (c) comply with the applicable policies and procedures of Fidelity; and (d) achieve a fair and reasonable result for the Fund.

^A This information is derived from the Fund's audited annual and/or unaudited interim financial statements. The net assets attributable to securityholders per security presented in the financial statements may differ from the net asset value calculated for fund pricing purposes. An explanation of these differences can be found in the notes to financial statements.

^B Net assets and distributions are based on the actual number of securities outstanding at the relevant time. The increase (decrease) from operations is based on the weighted average number of securities outstanding over the financial period. This table is not intended to be a reconciliation of beginning to ending net assets per security.

^C Distributions were paid in cash or reinvested in additional securities of the Fund, or both, and excludes any applicable distributions of management fee reduction to securityholders. Distributions are presented based on management's best estimate of the tax character.

^D This information is provided as at period end of the year shown.

^E Prior period amounts may have been adjusted.

^F The trading expense ratio represents total commissions, other portfolio transaction costs and dividends and interest expense on securities sold short expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period, including the Fund's pro-rata share of estimated trading costs incurred in any underlying investment fund, if applicable.

^G The Fund's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the Fund's portfolio adviser manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the Fund buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the year. The higher the Fund's portfolio turnover rate in a year, the greater the trading costs payable by the Fund in the year, and the greater chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the year. There is not necessarily a relationship between a high portfolio turnover rate and the performance of the Fund. The portfolio turnover rate is calculated based on the lesser of purchases or sales of securities divided by the weighted average market value of portfolio securities owned by the Fund, excluding short-term securities. The portfolio turnover rate includes any proceeds from a short sale in the value of sales of securities and the cost of covering a short sale in the value of purchases of securities. For periods greater than six months, but less than a full fiscal year, the portfolio turnover rate is annualized. The portfolio turnover rate excludes any adjustment for in-kind transactions.
